"Success is not final; failure is not fatal: It is the courage to continue that counts."

- Winston Churchill

Summary

I am a self-taught Frontend Web Developer from Cavite, Philippines. With a strong focus on developing responsive and user-friendly websites. My main objective is to deliver top-notch solutions that meet my clients' specific requirements. As a dedicated self-learner, I am committed to constant learning and improvement, always striving to enhance my skills. In addition to web development, I have experience as a Freelance Virtual Assistant, where I worked on tasks like data encoding and content writing. This diverse background opens up exciting possibilities for me to explore beyond just web development.
